CORRECTION CONCERNING CONCORDIA GROUND-BREAKING

MONTREAL / November 2, 1988 --- The news release issued October 28, 1988, concerning the sod-turning for Concordia University's $40 million downtown library complex, identified the project's general contractor as Hervé Pomerleau Inc.

In fact, the firm is general contractor for Phase One of the project only, which involves (i) shoring up portions of the foundations and inner walls of the 76-year-old Royal George Apartment Building, which is located on the site; (ii) erecting fencing around the perimeter of the library site -- bordered by de Maisonneuve Boulevard, Mackay Street, Bishop Street, and the laneway between de Maisonneuve and Ste-Catherine Street -- (iii) removing existing mechanical and electrical services on the huge lot; (iv) demolishing all but the façade and first bay of the Royal George building; and (v) excavating the site.
